

VISITING TEACHER IS PLEASED

Miss Frances Harden, Chicago Educator, Likes Elementary Methods.

Miss Frances E. Harden, who has for twenty-six years been a teacher in the public schools of Chicago, was in Columbia last week studying methods of the elementary schools that she may report these to the Chicago joint committee on education. This committee is attempting to improve the system of education in Chicago by observing the latest ideas and ideals of other schools in the United States.

In speaking of the work here, Miss Harden says: "I have watched the children here a week and have seen them working out their problems in their own way. The spirit of self-helpfulness and of helping each other is marked. This school does not develop the desire for one child to get ahead of his companions as so many schools do. Instead, it fosters the principle of 'how much can I help my neighbor to keep up with me?' This trains for citizenship and loyalty to the group, which are essential if we are to have a democracy. Democracy must mean equality of opportunity."

Love for nature, as emphasized by the school, also impressed Miss Harden favorably. In this age when commercialism rules it is a fine thing to have the child realize there is something worth while aside from financial success, she says. She also finds the building and arrangement well suited to increase the interest of the child.

Miss Harden has specialized in first-grade work. Troubles between the organized teachers of Chicago and the board of education forced her, with more than sixty other teachers, to give up her position this year. An injunction against the board of education to stop it from enforcing rules against the teachers' organization has been through three courts of Illinois and is now in the state supreme court. Miss Harden thinks the troubles will be settled in favor of the teachers, as the decisions have favored them so far.

In addition to having the highest mark of efficiency which the Chicago superintendent of schools will give, Miss Harden is vice-president of the National Education Association, which is the largest organization of teachers in the United States, and is also president of the National League of Teachers' Associations.

Miss Harden left this afternoon for Florida to spend Christmas. From there she will go to Fairhope, Ala., to study elementary methods.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP NOTICE

University Gets Information of Annual $1,000 Fellowship for Women.

A notice of the annual offer of the Sarah Berliner Research Fellowship for women has been received by the University. The fellowship yields $1,000 and is available for research work in physics, chemistry or biology, either in America or Europe. It is open to women holding the degree of doctor of philosophy or to those similarly equipped for the work of further research. Applications for the fellowship must be in the hands of the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Christine Ladd Franklin, 527 Cathedral Parkway, New York City, before February 1. In the applications the candidates are asked to give testimonials of work already done, evidences of good health and their plans for the use of the scholarship.

M. U. BAND'S RAGTIME TABOO IS EXPLAINED

Director Venable Says Organization Is University Class.

PLAY FOR CREDIT

Original Arrangements Will Be Given at Concert Tuesday Night.

For the first time by any military band the "Air de Ballet" (Scenes Pittoresques) by Massenet will be played at the University Band's concert at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the University Auditorium. The arrangement is by George Venable, director of the band. Two Italian, two French and one Russian selection will be on the program:

Egyptian Suite Luigini
I. Allegro
II. Allegretto
III. Andante
IV. Andante-Allegro

Waiter from "The Sleeping Beauty" Tchaikowski

Chorus of Romans (Heridade) .. Massenet

Air de Ballet (Scenes Pittoresques) Massenet

Overture-Normans Bellini

"There have been many queries as to why the band never plays the common popular music," said Mr. Venable. "People seem to forget that band is only a university class and that the members are students. They are here for education and not amusement. Therefore the music I teach them is of the educational kind."

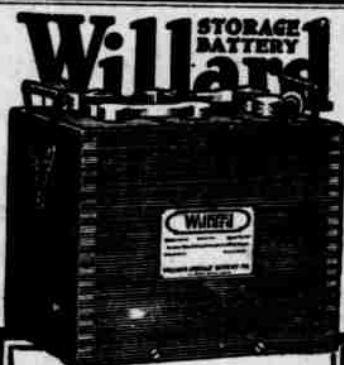

"The students can learn all the 'ragtime' they care for at home and people can hear it played by any minstrel or vaudeville troupe on the road. What they learn while in the band will last and will prove beneficial when they get back home. There are forty-eight members this year, most of them from small towns where good music is rare. So it is with the idea of teaching things worth while that I have the band play educational music."

A TIGER MISSOURIAN MANAGER

Present Advertising Man Promoted and "Snooze" Groves Elected.

Jesse L. ("Snooze") Groves, all-Valley football tackle and a senior in the School of Journalism, was elected business manager of the Daily Missourian yesterday morning, after the resignation of Albert G. Hinman, who resigned to accept a student assistantship in the School of Journalism. The change in the advertising department of the Missourian is effective January 1.

Russell Richards was elected assistant business manager and Ellis H. Jones and Mr. Hinman were elected to the Board of Directors of the Missourian Association, composed of all the students in the School of Journalism.
